

In the end, I decided to choose Style Tile version 1. I felt the paler, brighter colors of version 2 didn't match with the content. When I thought about how the color scheme would work with the theme of the comic, they felt a bit too bright and happy. Though the comic would be about getting out, socializing and exploration, these colors and fonts seemed too "cutesy", in a sense. Version 1's fonts have a bit more of a solid font, that got me thinking about college, and the colors felt like they would go better together, more so than the ones in version 2. Making the style tiles helps me think up of some possible ideas but I feel that I can't really find my answer of preference, until I make the site, and try to figure out where patterns and colors should go.